“ My prayers goes out to the family, I met Angela at McCall Hospice House she was known to me as the princess on the floor, I was the cook there and there wasn't anything Angela asked for she couldn't get from her smoothies every meal to her bananas splits with plenty choc syrup every night and her tomato soup. I really missed her when she left but I know God had a better place for her.

“ I first met Angela with my therapy dog, Joy, when we visited her in McCall Hospice House. Angela had a way of touching hearts, and I felt an immediate bond with her. She was such an inspiration... despite all the pain and trouble she was experiencing, she always had a smile and an optimistic outlook! Animals were drawn to her, and Joy was no exception. Her kind, gentle ways were magnetic... Joy would always pull me towards her room first whenever we made our weekly visits there. The time I spent with Angela will be cherished, and I know that many will miss her... though I know she's now brightening heaven and enjoying a pain-free life at last. May God bless her husband, John, who loved and supported her faithfully!
