“ I have worked with David but we call each other by our last names. Although he shared his thoughts about the worry of taking care of his parents, he thrives and moves forward. He dotes on his grandkids being a proud granddad. He has got a good sense of humor. I pray for his bereaved family. Your memory is not lost to them. Your memory lives on. You will be missed as a good colleague but even more so as a good friend. Rest in peace, kaibigan.

“ I will never forget the memory of David in the hospital room when my Dad was in a coma before he died. David and myself were tools of God used to pray for David’s grampa leading him to God and to accept Jesus as his personal savior. My dad woke up out of the coma and as I shared how Jesus would save him and take him to heaven, dad repented of his sins and accepted Jesus as his Savior. A week later he entered eternity with the Lord. David Loved the Lord and we would have conversations from time to time about God.
