“ My nanny was so important to me. She was just the best. There is no other way to describe her other than just the best. She was funny, she was happy & she could make my day any day just by seeing her face. Her home was always "home." And ever since she's been gone home is not something that exist anymore. Losing this woman has made me a lot of things, its made me numb most of all because she took so much of me with her. See the thing most people dont realize is when you lose someone so close and dear to your heart, you dont just lose them once. You lose them everytime you go home and realize they're not there, you lose them everytime you pick up their old tshirt and smell their sweet scent, everytime your favorite song comes on i lose you all over again. To my most favorite person in the world, my guardian angel continue to watch over me every day. Thinking of you today & always, i love you so much.

“ Joyce was my boss several times and was a great person. Always quiet and easy going. It broke my heart to hear she had passed away. She will always hold a speacial place in my heart. May God be with her family.... Tracy McGaha
