“ I was a manager at Walmart and worked with Shaun for several months. Shaun was a light in the dim of the department he worked in. He was always in a good mood and just happy to be alive. I will be forever grateful that I got to meet this man and spend the little time I did with him. He was truly a good person with no mean bones in his body. My heart is with his family and especially his children.

“ I have so many memories of Shaun, but one consistent memory is how he made me feel important every time we talked. He always asked how I was with such concern. He listened without making it about him, and would really make me feel like he was there for me. We had so many times of laughter and wonderful memories, and also times of deep conversations with incredible insight. He made me feel like a really good friend and important person always.
